Philippine Airmen Sink Four Ships

Naval Force Destroys 16 Japanese Bombers Over Japanese-Held Islands

Navy Is Silent

Service Refuses to Say Whether Japanese Base Was Attacked

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Over 18,000 tons of enemy ships have been destroyed in a spectacular raid by General Douglas MacArthur's small air force, and a task force of the navy has blasted 16 heavy Japanese bombers out of the sky in a deep penetration of Japanese held islands.

The double triumphs, while hardly major in character, served to show again today the amazing resourcefulness of MacArthur's little force in the Philippines, and to point up the navy's ideas for carrying the fight to the enemy.

One 10,000-ton ship, one 8,000-tonner, and two motor launches were destroyed in a surprise attack by MacArthur's airmen over Subic Bay. In addition large fires were started among enemy stores on docks on Olongapo and Grande Island, followed by explosions. Many small craft useful to the invaders were damaged.

Two things especially impressed the capital in the account of the action of the Pacific task force:

First: Prohibitive losses had been inflicted on the enemy—only two of 18 attacking bombers escaped—a fact which spoke volumes for the effectiveness of the fleet's anti-aircraft gunnery and its carrier-borne fighting planes. The bombers failed to score a hit and only two American planes were lost.

Second: Fleet task forces were angling farther westward, evidently close to the well-fortified Japanese Caroline Islands, where lie such important enemy bases as Ponape, Truk, Yap and Pelew.

The navy's silence last night did not indicate how deeply the task force had penetrated this general area of the Pacific. It said merely that the action had taken place west of the Gilbert Islands—the British possessions occupied early in the war by the Japanese which a fleet task force raided with destructive results on January 31. The Carolines are west and slightly north of the Gilberts.

It was apparent, however, that the task force had come within striking distance of a Japanese base, for the heavy bombers that attacked were land-based aircraft that cannot operate from carriers.

Navy Is Silent

The navy was silent on the subject, but the task force evidently was carrying out a reconnaissance some force with orders to inflict maximum punishment on any enemy forces encountered.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, intimated Monday that such operations could be expected to increase, for he promised that the nation's naval forces would make and make every opportunity to harass and damage the enemy, "eliminating an eventual grand offensive, when the time is ripe. The matter-of-fact language of the navy's communiqué gave a pulsing picture of the pulse-kicking drama and danger that is with this initial strategy.

"In the course of recent naval operations west of the Gilberts," said the report, "a task force of the Pacific fleet consisting of an aircraft carrier, cruisers and destroyers, was attacked by heavy bombers of the enemy operating in two groups of nine."

These attacks occurred in the afternoon and were timed to half hour apart. The Japanese formations were sely and vigorously engaged by carrier fighter planes and by anti-aircraft fire from the ships of our task force.

Only three enemy planes of the formation reached their bomb base point over the aircraft carrier which avoided all bomb by split-second maneuvering. The leading bomber of this up attempted a crash landing on the carrier and was shot down by heavy close-range anti-aircraft when barely 100 yards from objective.

In the second attack only five bers of the enemy formation shed the release point. In instance the salvo of enemy was closer to the carrier on the first attack but again its were obtained.

Nazis Report Huge Red Troop Actions Along Frozen Line

Fuehrer's Reason for This Statement, Upheld by Russia, Remains in Obscurity

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Herr Hitler's spokesmen report that the Moscowites are massing "almost unheard-of forces" along the great and still snow-bound Russo-German front for a big offensive, and already are attacking on an unprecedented scale.

What impels this frankness is best known to the fuhrer, whose mind travels by devious routes, though obviously propaganda of some sort is involved. However, while we may be doubtful of his purpose, there's no reason to question the statement because, forsooth, dispatches from Moscow have substantiated it in general.

Unannounced Area Blackout Slated

Dutchess County to Join in Test Next Week

Some time next week Kingston and Ulster county, in conjunction with Dutchess county, will stage an unannounced blackout, according to word received by Mayor William F. Edelmuth this morning from Thomas W. Darrah, deputy director of State Committee of Defense.

Director Darrah wrote that there would be an unannounced complete blackout of several counties in the state, including Ulster and Dutchess counties, during the second week of March.

The date and hour, wrote Director Darrah, will not be announced. This will be the first unannounced blackout test staged in Kingston and Ulster county.

Roosevelt Begins His Tenth Year In White House

Washington, March 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt began his tenth year in the White House today, little changed by the burden of events that might have broken the health of many men.

The President's physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, says his ability to remain calm in the face of great trials is the main reason for his good health today.

Admiral McIntire says nine years in the White House have left little mark on the Chief Executive. The war, however, has cut down on those frequent rest trips away from the Capital, and continuous war problems have interrupted his warm-water swims in the White House pool.

Here is a brief review of his administration:

1933—Proclaimed National Bank holiday and started Congress on 100 days of emergency legislation to bulwark financial structure.

1934—New Deal reform program started moving from emergency to more permanent measures for social security.

1935—N. R. A. and A. A. A. held unconstitutional by Supreme Court, provoking President's famous "back to the horse and buggy days" comment; Utility Holding Company Act passed; W. P. A. created.

1936—Re-elected to second term, Roosevelt-Garner ticket winning over London and Knox by 523 to 8 in the Electoral College; Visited South America and initiated program that later solidified the continent against the Axis.

1937—Lost Supreme Court reorganization fight; Foreign policy began taking shape with October 5 speech at Chicago assailing aggressors and urging they be "quarantined."

1938—Made bid for support of "Liberal" Republicans and invited "Conservative" Democrats to leave New Deal camp; Undertook personal campaign to defeat Democratic critics, but only one thus attacked failed to come back to Congress.

1939—Addressed personal messages to Hitler and Mussolini in (Continued on Page Seven)

Council Approves Refund of Taxes To Church Groups

Seventh Day Adventists and Alliance Gospel Make Bids; Claims Against City

City taxes that had been assessed against two properties that have now been remodeled into churches were ordered refunded at the regular meeting of the Common Council on Tuesday evening at the city hall. The refunds were directed by the aldermen at the request of the pastors of the two churches.

The first request for a refund of taxes was contained in a communication from the Rev. G. E. Appleyard, pastor of the Church of the Seventh Day Adventists. The church acquired title to a former residence property at 124 Smith avenue. The pastor wrote the property had been acquired at a very low figure, but it was in a bad state of repair.

The Rev. Mr. Appleyard wrote that since the church had taken title to the property it had expended some $2,300 in repairs and remodeling of the building so that it could be used for church purposes. He wrote that the membership of the church was but 40 members and that they had to carry this heavy burden of converting the former house into a modern church.

The taxes the pastor desired refunded amounted to $97.77 which had been paid in 1941.

On motion of Alderman Newkirk, seconded by Alderman Monroe the request of Pastor Appleyard was granted and the amount of taxes ordered refunded.

The other request was received in a communication from the Rev. L. H. Luck, pastor of the Alliance Gospel Church, which had purchased the property at 131 Franklin street, and remodeled it into a church.

Pastor Luck wrote that the church had taken title to the property on December 5, 1941, and he asked that the tax bill for 1942 amounting to $119.39 be cancelled. He called attention to the fact that the church had but a small membership, and that it needed what funds it had in order to make alterations to the property and carry on church activities.

On motion of Alderman Cornwell, seconded by Alderman Black, Pastor Luck's request was granted.

"No Parking" Chief of Police Charles Phinney sent in a communication to the council asking that the parking ordinance be amended to include no parking in the southerly side of East O'Reilly street, between Jansen avenue and Hasbrouck avenue. This is directly across the street from the Central Fire Station.

The traffic control committee reported favorably on the police chief's request and a covering ordinance was adopted by the council.

Claims Against City Several damage claims were filed against the city and all were referred to the auditing committee and the corporation counsel.

Among the claims filed was that (Continued on Page Seven)

British Bombs Blast French War Plants; About 600 Killed

Welles Says Anglo Raids Legitimate Measure of War

Refuses Comment on Any Political Effects on Vichy; No Sub Bases Found

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The British bombing of factories in the suburbs of Paris was a legitimate measure of war, Acting Secretary of State Welles told a press conference today.

Welles was asked for comment on a London report that the bombing might mean the end of Allied attempts to coax the Vichy government away from collaboration with Nazi Germany.

He replied that it was entirely clear that the bombings of factories in occupied France making war materials for Germany was a legitimate measure of war.

As to the political repercussion of such bombings, Welles had no comment.

He noted, however, that the United States policy toward the Vichy government had been outlined only last week and that this policy was not likely to be affected by the British use of a legitimate measure of war.

In reply to a question, Welles said that numerous reports of the use of western hemisphere bases by Axis submarines had been investigated but that no evidence had been found to support the allegation that foreign possessions in the western hemisphere were involved in the Axis operations.

He mentioned particularly a report that Axis submarines operating in the Caribbean had been using secret bases in French Guiana, which adjoins Dutch Guiana where American troops are garrisoned. He said the United States not only has a consul in French Guiana but other observers, and that these observers had found no confirmation whatsoever of the secret base reports.

In general connection with the war, Welles indicated the state department might have an important statement to make in aid to India before the end of this week.

State Digs Out Many Schools Closed

Buffalo, N. Y., March 4 (AP)—New York state dug out from under huge snow drifts today in the wake of a raging storm which lashed across the state for nearly 24 hours.

State police reported main highways open but rutted while in the eastern part of the state freezing rain and slush made road conditions hazardous.

Countless rural schools remained closed and secondary roads in most sections were still blocked as highway crews struggled against drifts which in some cases reached four and five feet.

Airlines resumed operations but at Buffalo airport officials said ground conditions prevented landings. Bus and train service returned to near normal.

The worst of the storm passed last night, the U. S. Weather Bureau in Buffalo reported.

Thousands of U. S. Troops Arrive at Northern Ireland

Latest Arrival Represents Routine Job and No Fanfare Is Accorded New Divisions

With U. S. Troops in Northern Ireland, March 4 (AP)—Thousands more of cheering, husky United States fighting men have arrived in a Northern Ireland port to augment the force that has been in Ulster for more than a month, it was announced today.

Details of the landing of the fleet of transport and supply ships were withheld until the soldiers, their guns and their other fighting equipment had been scattered to the secluded spots throughout the six Northern Ireland counties and the ships had left port.

Compared with the ceremonial landing of the first contingent of the A. E. F. to Europe's part of the World War last month, the latest arrival was a routine job carried out with typical army and navy clockwork precision.

Like the first contingent, most of the latest arrivals are midwesterners who had been in training in southern army camps for a year. (Continued on Page 12)

Los Angeles Is Startled at Disclosure Japanese Hold Areas Vital to Defense

Properties Adjoin Many Important Utilities on West Coast, Says County Official

Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—Southern Californians, who long have known that Japanese had infiltrated into defense vital areas, had that fact emphasized with startling clarity today. District Attorney John Dockweiler's office exhibited a map showing Nipponese held leases on land in or adjoining nearly every strategic region hereabouts.

Japanese, alien as well as American-born, leased all of the strategic shoreline of the Palos Verdes Hills. Some outposts of the harbor defense setup are in that area. Land under lease includes beaches which could be used for military landings, largely concealed by cliffs.

Other Japanese leases include land in or adjoining these vital resources: Every railway line in Los Angeles county. Owens valley aqueduct, which furnishes water to Los Angeles and many other cities in the county.

Every major highway. Power line rights of way. Vulture, Douglas and Lockheed aircraft factories.

Heart of the Signal Hill oil field and adjacent to Long Beach municipal airport.

Virtually every major refinery and oil tank farm in the harbor area.

The map also showed that Japanese hold a mile-square, flat, semi-desert tract northwest of Lancaster which could be converted into a military flying field. The map was prepared at request of the state attorney general's office for investigation of possible illegal leases—those ob-

Helfrich Is Given New 'Mission'

Dutch Carry Out Total Scorched Earth Plan on Island as Gravity Increases

Fight Continues

East Indies Leaders Are Told to Fight to Last by General

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Japan's invasion hordes scored new gains against outnumbered American, British and Dutch troops in the critical four-day-old battle of Java today, and the danger was now so acute that N. E. I. headquarters announced the major part of a scorched earth defense policy had already been carried out.

A Tokyo radio broadcast said Japanese mechanized units this morning reached a point west of the big Dutch naval base at Soerabaja, in eastern Java, and there clashed with "Allied forces trying desperately to halt the Japanese onslaught."

Vice Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich has been entrusted with a "special mission" and has been succeeded as commander of the Netherlands Indies Naval forces by Acting Rear Admiral J. J. A. Van Stavoren, the Netherlands government in London announced today.

The statement said that Lieut. Gen. Hein Ter Poorten would command the land forces following the departure of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, former supreme commander of the United Nations southwest Pacific forces.

Governor General A. W. L. Tjard van Starkenborgh Stachouwer will continue in full civil authority, the Netherlands government announced.

It declared that all commanders in the East Indies—even those whose forces may become cut off—have been ordered to "fight on to the last."

Other enemy columns were striking toward the capital city of Batavia, in western Java, where demolition squads already had begun to blast the picturesque 320-year-old town, and toward the Allied headquarters city of Bandung.

Once again, a tragic story of allied numerical inferiority—in planes, ships and men—emerged from the struggle for this last United Nations stronghold in the Indies.

Dutch quarters in London said that only about 50,000 Allied troops, among them "a few thousand American and British," were fighting at least 85,000 Japanese and that the United Nations Naval force had suffered "a crippling blow" in attempting to halt the Japanese invasion fleet.

Previous reports said the Dutch had an army of 100,000 to 200,000 troops, reinforced by "many thousands" of American, British and Australian soldiers, to combat the enemy's sea-borne attack.

A bulletin from N. E. I. headquarters conceded that the invaders "succeeded in making some headway at some points" as a result of numerical superiority "especially in the air."

The extent of the Japanese gains was not specified.

While there still appeared to be no radical change in the situation, the signs were ominous.

"The principal (scorched earth) destruction in Java has now been carried out," the Dutch command said.

Highly reliable Dutch sources in London reported simultaneously that Vice-Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich had resigned as commander in chief of allied naval forces in the Indies.

These sources declared Japanese submarine victories had reduced Dutch naval strength to such an extent that the Allies no longer were able to undertake a counter-offensive in the far Pacific battle theatre.

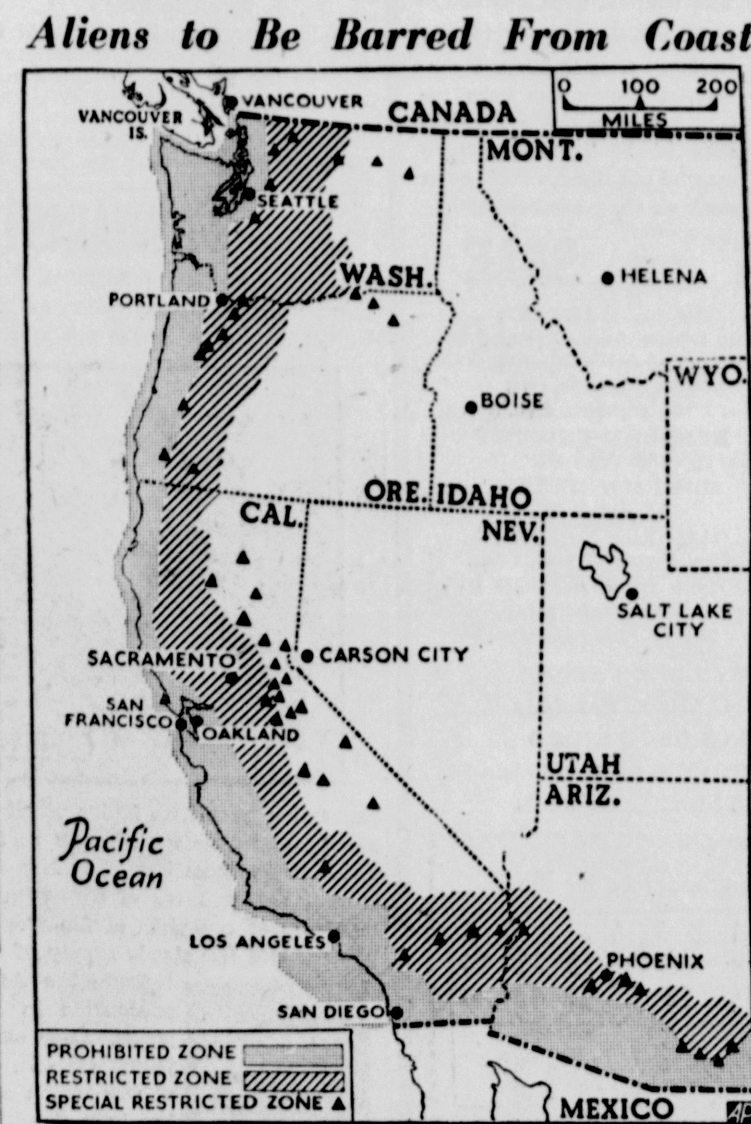

Terse Summary Dutch headquarters gave this terse summary of the land fighting:

"It can only be reported today that our troops fight with stubborn resistance and in offensive spirit."

"In all places where the enemy attempts to advance he is strongly engaged by our troops, who try to prevent his advance."

By contrast, British dispatches late yesterday said Allied troops had launched a counter-offensive, and the Japanese were reported thrown back seven miles in one sector.

Samaritans Safer

9.—The Little Injury

By L. M. Thompson, M.D., Assistant Director First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention Service of the American National Red Cross

A little wound, like a little learning, is a dangerous thing—but the reason is the reverse. The slight wound is dangerous because its importance is underestimated.

The fact is that even most serious wounds—except those of severe bleeding—are primarily dangerous because of the possibility of infection. Yet, the vast majority of serious infections and cases of blood poisoning start from very small wounds.

Right there you have the story. It is one of ignorance and neglect. The serious wound gets prompt and competent attention; the minor wound is slighted and belittled in proportion to its "unimportance"—and that is invitation to infection.

Germs are everywhere present. Whenever the skin of the body is broken, they enter the wound—not singly or in pairs but by the thousands. That is why the surgeon makes such elaborate preparations for an operation.

Despite the fact that an army of germs invades through even the smallest gap in the body's protective covering, infection does not always develop because:

Bleeding tends to wash germs out of the wound;

The body has various fighting powers of its own.

White blood cells and certain other substances in the blood are able to destroy germs. Frequently they win the fight unaided—but you never can tell when they will lose. And if they lose, you have infection.

The only safe and intelligent thing to do is to take proper care of every wound, no matter how small, as soon as it occurs.

It is fortunate that during the first six hours there is little or no growth of germs in the wound. Under all but the most adverse circumstances that is more than ample time for effective First Aid care.

And the end of that time, the germs begin to grow in the wound and in the surrounding tissues, and the body rallies its defensive forces to prevent the invaders from getting into the circulating blood and from spreading to the rest of the body.

Many of the army of white blood cells sent to help build this wall are killed in the fight, and their dead bodies form a considerable part of the pus that is usually present in an infected wound. Squeezing any infected wound or boil tends to break down this defensive wall and thus spread the infection.

The symptoms of infection are known to virtually everyone—usually as a result of personal experience. They include tenderness, throbbing pain that comes on several hours after the injury, swelling, redness, pus, red streaks radiate from the wound and are often present when pus is absent and swollen glands. The latter will be noticed in the groin if the infection is of the lower limb, in the arm or axilla if of the arm, and in the neck if the infection is of the head.

Whenever infection has set in a physician should be consulted at once. The province of the first-aid is to forestall infection, pending medical attention. In this he will do well to bear in mind the following suggestions, which are a part of every Red Cross First Aid training course.

1.—Do not touch the wound with the hands, mouth, clothing, or any unclean material. Only sterile gauze should be used.

2.—Do not wash with soap and water. This will carry into the wound large numbers of germs from the surrounding skin and from water itself.

3.—Apply mild tincture of iodine (2 per cent). This should be applied only once, and then well down into the wound, and also on the skin around the wound to the extent of about one inch. Full strength tincture of iodine (7 per cent), such as usually purchased at the drug store, is stronger than necessary. Be sure to ask for mild tincture of iodine. It should be kept in a bottle tightly closed with a glass or rubber stopper.

Let the iodine dry. If covered while still wet, it is likely to blister the skin.

Never re-apply iodine. And never use it near the eyes or body cavities.

Apply a sterile dressing or compress, and bandage snugly in place. Do not disturb blood clots. For example, do not tear a compress from a wound.

These admonitions can be helpful, however, only to a limited extent. They will prove truly effective only if they have impressed upon the reader something of the importance of First Aid knowledge and training, and have infected him with interest to the point of enrolling in a Red Cross First Aid course in his own community.

26 AGAINST THE AXIS: 3

Union of Soviet Socialist Republics—Problem child of the war, this politically young nation adds 192,695,000 Russians to the side of United Nations. In the diplomatic doghouse since his 1939 non-aggression pact with Hitler, Stalin returned to official favor with the gallant stand before Moscow and is balancing the past helping the Nazis home from Moscow. His four million soldiers and 13 million trained reserves (as of November 1) are backed by boundless resources of one-sixth of the world's land surface. Their brilliant fighting and the steady supply of mechanized equipment, planes, guns indicate the American engineers taught industrialization in Russia for two decades to willing pupils. Long on coal, iron, oil, minerals of all kinds, fruits, cereals, vegetables, timber—the essentials of war which she has shared with China—Russia has been short on friends (U. S. opposition to extending lend-lease aid, fear of Communism) and her Finnish invasion didn't help much. Where she'll fit at the postwar conferences still puzzles her allies but meantime her soldiers are in there swinging; her factories are delivering the goods, her peoples apparently are united.

Pan-American Highway Is Growing in Importance to Defense of Both Americas

By JOHN LEAR

Washington, March 4 (Wide World)—Nazi submarine attacks in the Caribbean sea and the escape of the German battleships through the English Channel to the North Atlantic have combined almost overnight to make the Pan-American highway vital to defense of the new world.

No war machine can run without raw materials. With the Orient severed as a source of supply, many of these materials must come from South America. They must come, most of them, through the Caribbean sea, where the U-boats have harried their passage.

When the Pan-American highway is finished, at least some of these war materials can travel on it. Ships which now carry them can then be freed for the increasing tasks of war abroad.

The highway has a more immediate strategic role in relation to the Panama Canal. It could carry into Panama the food and other supplies that country needs. In event of a submarine blockade, one of the reported objectives of the Japanese, it would be the only safe method of keeping the Panama garrisons in shape to defend themselves.

At the present time, the airplane is the only means of communication between the United States and the canal. Army men say not even a bicycle could get through the tangled jungle blocking part of the land route.

Central Americas Cooperate

The Central Americas are cooperating to speed the Pan-American road over this most vital stretch.

Late in January Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones appeared before the House appropriations sub-committee to ask for immediate spending of $7,000,000 to prepare macadam roadway in the next year and a half. Engineers have been at work in Costa Rica and Nicaragua since December 27. The House committee was told the first 80 miles of road northward from Panama was of the "very highest defense character" since it provided the only access to Rio Hato airport, a guardpost for both coasts and for the canal itself. The next 450 miles were "almost of equal military significance" as a land link to San Jose airport in Costa Rica, 45 miles from the sea and 4,000 feet in the air, on a plateau. Connected by rail with Punta Arenas on the Pacific coast and Puerto Limon on the Caribbean, this airport could be kept in operation by land via the highway if the sea approaches were threatened. The highway is further characterized as having "defense aspects" in relation to the canal as far north as Nicaragua.

The Pan-American road is not solely a Central American institution. As planned, it would connect all the countries of the new world, from Alaska through Canada, down both coasts of the United States, through Central America and around South America.

Road Is Passable

In South America, the road is passable throughout in the dry season, and can be negotiated, with difficulty, almost any time of year. For touring in the modern sense of the word, much remains to be done by all the nations.

The biggest gap in the road today is the 300 miles between northern Colombia and the Panama Canal Zone. This stretch is not yet surveyed. At the canal itself, a highway substitute for the water link is now under construction.

As Mexico City, the highway forks. One route crosses the United States border at Laredo, Tex., and runs north east through San Antonio, Nashville, Harrisburg and New York to Montreal. The other road goes to Nogales, Ariz., San Francisco, Seattle, Vancouver and up the Canadian Pacific coast to Fairbanks, Alaska.

In Canada and Alaska, construction of the road, now virtually non-existent, is expected to be speeded following President Roosevelt's recent references to the importance of Alaskan bases in the war against Japan.

The total length of the Pan-American highway proper is 11,300 miles. Total cost for surveying and building from here on is estimated at $80,000,000. The job probably will take two years and possibly four or five.

When complete, the highway will be the economic backbone of the hemisphere. It will provide the now isolated Latin lands with swift trade connections among themselves and with their main supply house and customer, the United States.

It will display all the beauties the earth has to offer, from snow capped mountain peaks to pine covered mills, fruitful plains, desert flats, volcanoes and mountain lakes, tropical gardens, sweeping pampas, dark jungles, and sea-shore sands.

Several Refugees Appear as Donors At Local Legion

There was excitement last night at the Legion Memorial Building, 18 West O'Reilly street, as a number of refugees, residents of this city, came despite a heavy downpour, enthusiastically to offer their blood for the nation's defense.

They were received by the chairman of the Legion's "First Aid Unit" Eugene P. MacConnell, Carl Upright, spokesman for the group, painted, as aspirations as future citizens, of their desires to be of service to America, of their eagerness to serve this community.

One of the donors said, "we have breathlessly read of and followed the activity of the 'blood bank' and waited for the opportunity to offer ourselves to it."

as an expression of our love for America and of our readiness to do what we can as members of the great civilian army.

The following volunteered and stand ready to serve: Carl Upright, Curt Upright, Mrs. Rose Meyer, Eric Meyer, Mrs. Paula Forst, Mrs. Greta Fischl, Arthur Fischl, Mrs. Herta Baum, Erich Baum, Erich Bleich, Sigmund Lieblisch.

Blood banking is highly perfected today, and as a result the young men who go forth to fight the Axis, stand a much better chance of surviving the injuries that many come their way.

Mr. MacConnell and Legion Commander Stanley H. Dempsey, accepted the names submitted by the delegation and thanked them for offering their services for such a worthy purpose.

The "blood bank" welcomes the action of such volunteers. They may call any day or night at the Memorial Building, 18 West O'Reilly street or telephone 1914.

When you have read this newspaper, save it for defense.

Leaves Railroad

HENRY J. DIEHL

One of Kingston's best known railroad men, Henry J. Diehl of Nicholas avenue made his last run Saturday three days after his 65th birthday. The veteran fireman recently has been firing the engine of the "milk" train on the Catskill Mountain division of the New York Central and he has been a railroad man for more than 30 years. Before he started firing the iron horses, however, Mr. Diehl worked on the Mary Powell for about two years and had other work as a fireman on river boats including the B. B. Odell. He went to work on the former U. & D. railroad in 1905 and worked for many years on that mountain run before it was taken over by the New York Central. Mr. Diehl is also a veteran of the Spanish-American War and he has told many times of his experiences in the Philippine Islands. He went in the service in 1899 and remained until 1902. He was with General Lawton's expedition to Parangap, in the fight of Telegraph Hill and the capture of Parangap, June 10, 1899. He also took part in General Schwan's expedition to Cavite Province, October 7 to 14 in 1899, and several other battles and skirmishes including the bombardment and capture of San Fabian.

NEWS AGES IN TIBET

Priests in Tibet now read the news aloud in public and it grows old before it reaches all the people. Few Tibetans can read, and only 50 copies of their newspaper are printed. Walter Ashoe, a European, prints and sends the papers to the lamas or priests, who summon the neighboring villagers to listen to the news. The papers are sent to another group of lamas, and by the time they travel to the far frontiers of the country, the news may be from six months to two years old.

President Fairbrother then introduced the speaker of the evening, Assistant District Attorney Frederick Stang of Kingston, who, after a humorous introduction gave a fine address on Community Interests and Investments in their Futures, entering a plea for community effort on the part of adults for the children so that the future generations may be sound citizens instead of delinquents. Following the address Toastmaster Fairbrother introduced Mrs. Stang, Dr. Ingraham, and the pastors of the two churches.

If Francis Can Do It, Anybody Can, and to Prove It Writer Tells of Taking Fliers' Test

(Wide world's aviation editor has sweated through that 150-question test which is given young men who want to get into the army as pilot officers. "I had a choice," he says, "of pretending not to hear when they asked me to take it, and of assuming I would fail, or if taking it and being sure I would fail." His story may encourage some who would like to fly.)

By DEVON FRANCIS
(Wide World Aviation Editor)

Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., March 4—The man came over and put a practice sheet in front of me.

"This is the way the questions will be," he explained. "They are of the multiple-choice type. That is, all you've got to do is indicate which of five separate answers is right."

It looked very simple. The first question was: The largest city in the United States is A—Chicago, B—New York, C—Washington, D—Denver, E—Boston. The second was: The first President of the United States was A—Jefferson, B—Franklin, C—Adams, D—Washington, E—Lincoln.

It seemed a little silly to waste my time on all this.

"Is that all there is to it?" I asked. "Well, practically," said the man. "I didn't like the way he answered. I knew why I didn't like it when they brought around the test itself. I hope my onetime geometry teacher back in Wichita never hears about this."

Now, to keep the record straight I am 15 to 20 years older than the scores of thousands of young men all over the country who take the examination to become aviation cadets. In a manner of speaking, I have been around and ought to know more answers than they do. Moreover, I have been writing aviation for almost five years. That was an added advantage to the multiple-choice question pertaining to the subject.

To my disadvantage was my miserable knowledge of the simpler forms of mathematics.

Third Flunked Out

I knew a third of the applicants flunked out. I knew the highest score ever made here was 138 correct answers out of the 150. I knew the average score for everybody who essayed the examination was 89 and that the average for all who passed was 99.2. Those are not percentages. The figures represent the number of questions answered.

I had to get 90 to pass. "You may start now," said the man. He wrote down the time.

The first ten or 15 questions,

Stocking Problem In 1917 Not As Severe As Today

The stocking problem in 1917 did not seem to be as severe as it is today. Cotton stockings were still popular and most of the advertisements listed them as first choice for milady. "Hosiery of quality and durability," they were described. "Ladies' gauze cotton hose, black or white, 12½ cents." Pure silk hose were $1 a pair and quite extravagant for another advertisement read, "Ladies' Novelty silk hose, pure thread silk in black, white, champagne, gray or brown, 35 cents a pair."

Of course, the stockings were not apparent in the style of the day anyway for the dresses, although shorter, were still ankle length with high top button and lace shoes reaching the hem of the skirts. The jumper dress was gaining a lead and was described as particularly suited to slender figures. This was indeed the truth for in addition to the seemingly voluminous undershirt was now added the overdress which was about three inches shorter than the undershirt. Materials suggested were satin for undershirt, crepe for tunic and lace, net or tulle for the underwaist. The pattern was made with a "charming surplice style underwaist" as if it would make any difference for only the neckline and sleeves were visible above the jumper top. For size 18 it required 4¼ yard of 44 inch material for the underdress and three yards for the overdress.

A special sale was conducted for men's driving caps or caps for motoring. They were well made in checks and fancy mixtures and sold for 30 cents a piece.

Comparable with today's Bundles for America and Bundles for Britain would be the society known as Circles of Mercy. It was akin to Red Cross work then as it is today but even more so along the medical line. One report showed the delivery of 2,580 compresses, 210 cotton pads of various sizes and one bundle of socks. The groups worked for the relief of the foreign as well as the American troops and had sent a great deal of materials to the French army prior to America's entry in the war.

In June of that year which was three months after the United States had declared war, the Kingston High School had 18 members of the present student body and those alumni who had been graduated the year previous enrolled in some service of the war. At the class exercises, this imposing list was read and became the honor roll of the school.

Among the names which appeared were: Corp. Edward Reylea, John Joyce, Louis Schon, John Patis, and Aubrey Arns, who enlisted in the army; Royal Habbrouck, navy; Harper Leeper, naval defense reserve; William Ross and Kenneth Sullivan, engineer's corps in army; Bernard McBride, hospital corps in state militia; Clifford Sears in the cavalry; Calvaine, officers' training camp; and Edward Ashby, Kenneth Canfield, Raymond Terwilliger, Albert Britt, Eugene Freer and Geoffrey Strungell in branches of the United States Army.

Lowell Club Makes Changes

In Program, Studies Mexico

The meeting of March 24 will be transferred as to place and program to March 17. On the evening of March 24 there will be a meeting at the home of the Misses Quimby, Wilson avenue, when slides will be shown.

Yesterday the Lowell Club met with the president, Mrs. James Guttridge. Continuing the study of Mexico, Mrs. James Murphy, Jr., presented the paper of the day on "Present Day Relations With Mexico." Mrs. Murphy wore a beautifully embroidered and spangled Mexican costume loaned by Mrs. John Saxe, whose daughter has purchased the dress in that country.

Mrs. Murphy told of the difficulty in changing the attitudes and policies of the Mexican people for so many are not informed as to governmental and public matters. The primary concern of the people is the land and the soil found on the higher plateaus for farming. Irrigation is needed in these areas. Much of the land is still owned by a few men. However, in the past few years the development of the present class in Mexico has brought about higher education and a general raising of the standard of living of this group.

Avile Camacho, president, was elected in 1940 and has pledged his country to full cooperation in the defense of the countries of the western hemisphere. Mexico still remains a military oligarchy. Since the late 1920's the relations with Mexico have become constantly better, especially since the visits of Dwight Morrow.

Mrs. Murphy quoted many reliable sources for her information and stated that the Fifth Column was more solidly organized in Mexico than in any of the other Latin American countries. However, the dependence on the United States for trade is a factor to make a change in the beliefs of the people.

Poor Letter Gets A Poor Response

What Boners Did He Write?

What a slap in the face! In response to his letter he gets this cold, curt note: "Why? Maybe HIS letter was disappointing. Maybe she tore it open very eagerly, only to find it a string of choppy, ungrammatical sentences: 'I sure am busy. Saw a movie though.'"

So many people are careless about letter-writing, thinking it's a special art, hard to learn!

It's simple to check on errors — to write correctly "surely am," the subject "I" before "saw."

You can easily make your letters interesting, by just telling little things. About your movie, say "Garbo was hammy, all right!" You are busy? Write: "Papers are on my desk in two feet stacks!"

If you are careless about business letters of course you'll never get the job. Do you write: "I saw your ad in today's Times and have had four years' experience and I could take the job right now?" Be clear, correct!

Our 32-page booklet points out common grammar mistakes, helps enrich your vocabulary, suggests topics to write to friends, rules of good business letters. Gives 24 model social, business and friendly letters.

Send ten cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for your copy of "Good Letter - Writing Made Easy" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

COUPLE BACK FROM HONEY-MOON WONDER WHY THEIR FRIENDS DON'T VISIT THEM

Ordinarily friends and relatives of the bride and bridegroom hurry to see them as soon as they get back from their wedding trip—whether they are ready to have visitors or not—and certainly without waiting for special invitations. The only case I know of personally when they didn't was one that occurred long ago, when Mary A. eloped with the fiancé of her best friend. In this instance, it was not because no "at home" notices were sent out that people stayed away!

I don't want to imagine a similar scandal in trying to guess the answer to a bride who tells me that she eloped four months ago. Further than this, she gives me no clue as to why she and her husband are being neglected. Her letter says:

"Mother sent out announcements immediately and enclosed 'at home' cards stating where we were to live and when we would be at home. This was a month ago and as yet our friends have made no attempt either to come to see us or to invite us to their houses. I feel that they are at fault and that we should not be expected to take the lead."

The only suggestion I can offer is to find out from one who has always been a best friend what the reason is. Or if you have an idea what it is and can make a satisfactory explanation, then by all means do so. Or if I am taking too serious a reason and you war stampeded drives or Red Cross classes, then by all means kind of no reason except the possible occupation given to them by invite them! There is neither precedent nor sense in waiting at home, unless you have put on shoes that in some way resemble those of Mary A.

First Names
Dear Mrs. Post: To someone I knew slightly, but socially, I announced myself on the telephone, "This is Mary Smith." The next time I saw this person she called me Mary instead of Mrs. Smith, evidently supposing that I had given her this privilege. I hadn't meant it to be this way at all. I merely thought it was the thing to do in case of a social and not a business acquaintance. Doesn't this prove a weakness in the rule?

Answer: This rule, like several others, is sometimes impractical when applied to situations that require rather definite social knowledge—which may be lacking. For this reason it is best to use some discretion. If you have any doubt about another's reaction, and she is someone whom you do not like enough to have her call you Mary, the only thing to do is say, "This is Mrs. John Smith."

Should a very young woman announce herself as Miss Mary Smith, this would be very unusual and "high-collared," but an unmarried woman of 30 or so would be quite right to use the definite thing. Miss Smith, if necessary. Needless to explain its rudeness is in implying that the one addressed is not believed to have good manners. It is best therefore to be thoughtful.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Cocktails." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

G.O.P. Budget Is Tangled Following Albany Submission

Democrats Call Reduction 'Big Fake'; Claims Credit for Cut in Income Tax

Albany, N. Y., March 4 (AP)—The "economy" banner of the Legislature's majority Republicans became wrapped today in a financial tangle resulting from their submission of a $178,373,251 state budget which is $175,662 higher than Governor Lehman's total.

While Democratic leaders dubbed the G.O.P. reduction "a big fake," Republican lawmakers announced agreement to pass probably next week the newly revised fiscal plan which they claim is $2,284,337 under the 1942-43 appropriation program recommended by the governor.

The Republicans explained their total—calculated after a lengthy party conference yesterday—in this manner:

To the governor's proposed $377,067,589 budget, they added $1,410,000 for administration of the new automobile financial responsibility law; $1,400,000 which Lehman recommended as pay increases for 10,000 state workers, and $750,000 for estimated interest on temporary loans.

That brought the governor's budget, which he had twice reduced, to $380,627,589.

The Republicans then agreed to chop $4,235,837 from this sum by reducing various appropriations, while adding $1,951,500 to two others.

The recommended additions include $1,751,500 for state aid to education by elimination of the two per cent cut the party inaugurated in 1939, and $200,000 for "adjustment" of all state employees' salaries up to $2,000.

The proposed reductions called for lopping $1,235,837 from administration expenses and capital outlays $3,000,000 from the home relief appropriation which Lehman previously recommended lowering $10,200,000 under present expenditures; $1,000,000 from the governor's suggested reserve for special appropriation bills and $400,000 from his proposed re-appropriations representing funds unexpended from last year.

This program, the Republicans estimated, would result in a surplus of $7,800,000 at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1943.

While Republican leaders earlier declared their "economy plan" to cut the governor's budget for the fourth year in succession would propose reduction or elimination of another tax, no such provision was made in the final draft.

The plan to maintain, however, its cut in previous years had made possible the governor's recommendation of a two-year, 25 per cent cut in personal income taxes, and asserted "We eliminated the one per cent emergency income tax" payable next April 15.

The plan to restore full state aid for public schools was regarded as a "trick" by the party, they stated, because "it does not seem the part of wisdom to build up a substantial state surplus while compelling an increase in local real estate taxation which will be necessary if full state aid is not allowed in most parts of the state to meet additional school defense activities and costs."

The majority lawmakers based a proposed added reduction of home relief on dwindling relief rolls.

Their recommendation for increasing salaries of state employees rejected the governor's request for a flat $72 a year pay increase only to institutional workers. The Republican plan, in addition, would give state employees earning $2,000 annually or less a 10 per cent pay increase, while the cost of living mounted 10 per cent above a normal to be fixed by the State Division of Commerce.

The party cuts in administration and capital outlays would prevent such expenditures as $495,600 for a new state prison at Green Haven, Dutchess county, reduce $123,575 from funds for maintenance of state cars; $255,000 from the program for administration of the automobile financial responsibility law, and $600,000 from the $580,000 fund to complete the Southern State Parkway.

The legislative contingent fund would be reduced $40,000; state publicity, $15,000; law revision commission, $24,800, and maintenance of the Mt. Van Hoevenberg bobsled run at Lake Placid, $10,500.

FARM BUREAU

The Farm Bureau executive committee opposed the consideration of advancing time another hour beyond the present war time. This action was taken at the regular monthly meeting held at the farm bureau office in Kingston Tuesday afternoon and presided over by DeWitt G. Crowell, chairman of the executive committee.

It was decided to hold one or two regional meetings of farm bureau committees to discuss such things as the farm labor shortage, expansion of the farm machinery program, co-operation with Selective Service boards, potato processing, "Victory Garden" program and other timely problems. The next meeting will take place Tuesday evening, April 7.

The resolution opposes "the advancing of clocks another hour beyond Eastern War Time and beyond it would work a hardship on farmers, restrict the regular working hours on farms and tend to reduce the total food production."

It suggests that "cities, schools, merchants and so forth, remain on Eastern War Time as a patriotic contribution to the farmers food production efforts."

"Copies of this resolution will be sent to various public officials and organizations."

Governor Clarifies Status of Officials

Albany, N. Y., March 4 (AP)—Governor Lehman, seeking to erase what he termed "a great deal of misunderstanding" over his defense program, assured the legislature today authority of local officials will be retained "except during actual attack."

Commenting on the governor's message, Republican Assembly Majority Leader Irving Ives declared "There is no fundamental difference between our position and the governor's. In principle we are, of course, united."

Admittedly concerned over reports Republican majority legislators disapproved his proposal for appointment of paid local civilian protection directors and intended to revise the state's main defense bill, the governor told lawmakers in a special message.

"Every mayor will retain his authority and power over regular municipal agencies. The city director of civilian protection will have no directive powers over any of these agencies except during actual attack."

Explaining that the civilian director's duties required "24-hour-a-day, seven-days-a-week" service for "protecting" the community against enemy attack, the governor added that "there must be one commander in charge of the numerous volunteer defense groups."

Bonds were steady and commodities moderately higher.

Zelie Stars as Kingston Defeats Po'keepsie, 44-38 At Municipal Auditorium

Young Pivot Player Gets 16 Points to Rally Locals to Triumph Over Visitors

In one of its last few games of the 1941-42 basketball season, Kingston High School rode to victory last night at the municipal auditorium thanks to a young fellow named George "Zeke" Zelie, the center who has been making quite a name for himself this season.

Zelie's one-man show sparked the Maroon and White charges to a long sought for victory over Poughkeepsie by the score of 44 to 38. The young pivot representative dropped in 16 points on seven fields and two fouls.

It simply looked like another big loss for the local school last night when the Bridge City tossers took a 13 to 4 lead in the first period. However, Zelie started to move Kingston in the second frame and then added a big third period cluster to assure the victory.

In the second period when the score was 15 to 7 for Poughkeepsie Zelie opened his scoring drive. He dropped one in from the side and then rushed through for a quick layup to make it 15-11 before Poughkeepsie could put the brakes on. The Bridge City five made it 21 to 13 until Sagendorf and Zelie combined their talents to make it 21 to 17.

About the middle of the third quarter Kingston finally forged into the lead when Captain Ray Herriek, George Zelie and Ed Luedtke moved in for successive shots to give the Maroons a 33 to 28 lead.

Bill Tierney injected some additional life to the Maroon and White squad at the start of the fourth period when he poured in three points. Tierney's footwork also was a helpful factor in the continued drive by Kingston.

At the four minute mark Zelie soared one from the side to make the score 40 to 34. The young pivot star rammed back and scored a layup. Zelie concluded his one-man show a few seconds later when he pumped in his seventh and final deuce of the game.

Kingston High travels to Newburgh Friday night for its final DUSO League game of the season.

Schools May Play Jubilee Cage Tilts For Hawaii Clubs

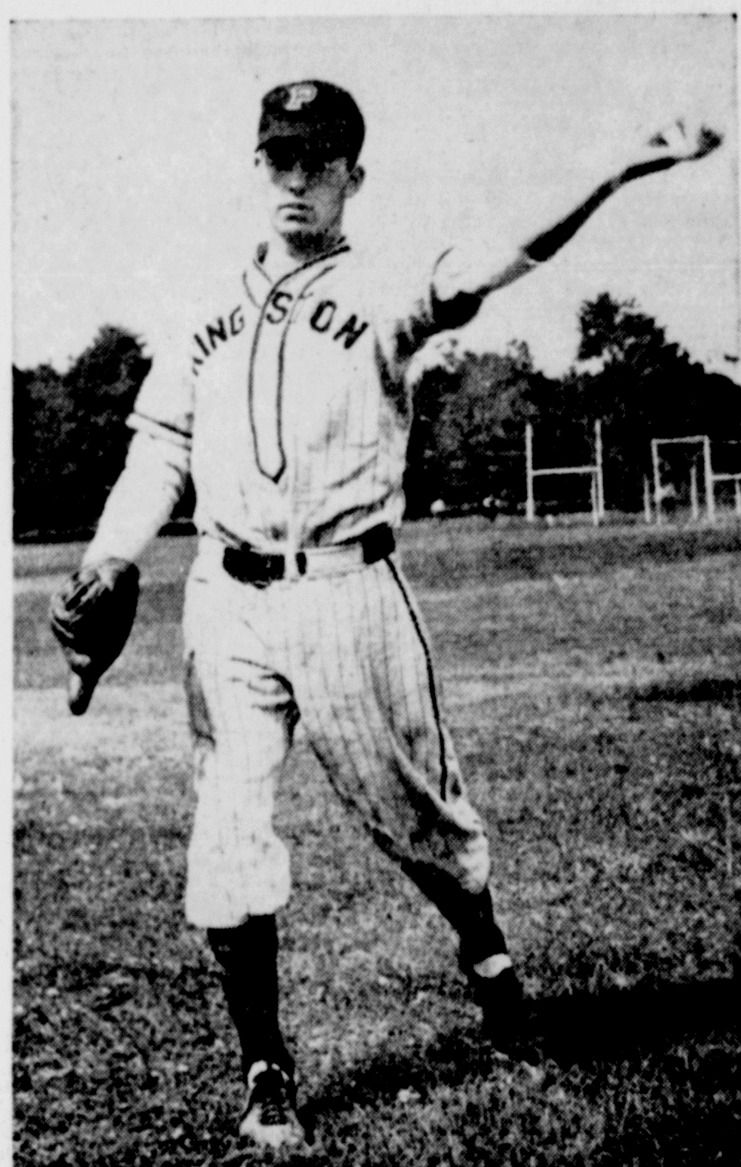

Before Pearl Harbor Attack Many Teams Planned Benefits for James Naismith Cause

Springfield, Mass. (Special to Freeman)—Until the attack on Pearl Harbor shattered the pleasant way of life in Hawaii, hundreds of basketball teams on the islands had planned to play Golden Ball Games in the interests of the Golden Jubilee of Basketball Campaign.

No sport in Hawaii is comparable in popularity to basketball. Hundreds of teams—club, school, and industrial—play the year 'round, mostly on outdoor courts. Educators agree that basketball is the most democratic and Americanizing influence in the Hawaiian Islands. They love the game and are grateful to its inventor.

E. L. Damkroger, of the Island of Maui, who was instrumental in arranging the Golden Ball Games in Hawaii, all of which have had to be postponed indefinitely because of the war, made the suggestion that possibly American teams

Benefit Game to Aid Ostrom

BILLY OSTROM

At the municipal auditorium Thursday night the Kingston Recreation basketball team will play the celebrated New York Jewels in a special exhibition benefit game for Billy "The Kid" Ostrom. The above picture shows Ostrom in uniform of the Kingston Rec Baseball Club while warming up for one of last year's games. Local club officials and fans hope to see the Poughkeepsie boy in action again this year. Thursday's proceeds of the Rec-Jewel cage game will be turned over to finance an operation on Billy who is suffering from a curvature of the spine. His future in baseball depends on this operation and all who liked to see this young star in action on the mound and at first base are expected, Rec officials opine, to be at the game for this worthy purpose.

Moe Spahn Will Be With Jewels Thursday Night Florida Tourney

Former Kingston Player Added to Roster for Local Game; Recs to Stand Pat

It was announced this morning that the New York Jewels, who play the Kingston Recreation's special benefit game for Billy Ostrom at the municipal auditorium Thursday night, have signed Moe Spahn.

Spahn, like many others of the Jewels, will be oldtimers returning to the local boards where they saw plenty of action a few years ago. Spahn formerly donned a Kingston uniform and will be welcomed back tomorrow night when he appears in the uniform of the Jewels.

The New Yorkers also will have Tony Krieger, Vinnie Capraro, Mac Kinshurmer, Al Benson, Hagen Anderson, "Rip" Gerson, Willie Rubenstein and Mickey Kupperberg. This represents one of the strongest squads ever to play under the Jewel banner.

Anderson, who surely needs no introduction after his spectacular play here with the Recs, is currently performing for the Pittsfield Golden Bears in the New York State League. Last week Anderson scored 16 points.

Meanwhile, the Recreations will stand pat with Willie Knapp, Bernie Fliegel, Sammy Kaplan, Joe O'Neill, Nick Shaback, Larry Dodick and Howie Bollerman. Fliegel and Dodick unloaded an attack of 18 points for Glens Falls Sunday in a state league game against Troy.

The advance sale of tickets for the game Thursday night indicates one of the largest turnouts of the season. All proceeds will be turned over to finance an operation on Billy Ostrom, a member of the Kingston Recreation Baseball Club in 1941. Ostrom may appear at the game.

would be willing to play a Golden Ball Game for each of the Hawaiian teams that have been forced to drop their game. He also suggested that organizations and communities in the United States would, no doubt, be glad to pinch hit for Hawaii by staging a tournament or a night of games in behalf of Hawaii.

Some of the pros have played as many as five practice rounds, but out of all this tring there have been only two trips in less than 71. Picard and Claude Harmon each have turned in cards of 69.

More Pirates Coming
San Bernardino, Calif. — The welcome hand was out today for the Pittsburgh Pirates, whose squad of battersmen was due after a final brief workout at El Centro. The remainder of the Pirate squad is expected Thursday.

Bill Baker, young catcher, bagged the first Pittsburgh homer of the season in yesterday's 14 to 4 triumph over San Diego.

ON THE SPOT WITH GRAHAM

New York—Roaming the sports field:

Ben Hogan, who has been "in the money" more consistently in tournaments than any other professional golfer in recent years, isn't so good in the man-to-man competition of tournament playoffs. Since he became a top-flight Ben has tied for first in four tournaments and lost three playoffs.

His boyhood chum, Byron Nelson, outpointed him in the Texas Open in February 1940. And Leonard Dodson won a three-way playoff with Hogan and Dutch Harrison in the 1941 Oakland Open. Ben came through with a birdie on the last hole to beat Jimmy Thomson in the Los Angeles Open in January but he lost the Beaumont Texas Open a short while ago by four shots to young Chick Harbert.

Harbert, incidentally, is one of the brightest pro prospects. He first flashed into the headlines in 1937 when, as an amateur, he won the Michigan Open with 268. He finished 18 shots in front of the field and was in the lead from the first round when he fired a 63. Craig Wood's record 264 in the 1940 Metropolitan Open is one of the few lower scores for 72 holes.

Leslie MacMittell may be the best miler in history before he hangs up his spikes but neither he nor any other college man will run a 4-minute mile, says Dorsey Griffith, Catholic U. track coach.

"I don't think it is possible for anyone who is bothered with textbook or earning a living to run a 4-minute mile. I think it will be a long time before we see it done and the man who does it will be a 'business miler,' someone who will devote his entire time and mind to the job."

While Cornelius Warmerdam, Leslie MacMittell and Greg Rice have been getting the headlines in the winter track meets—sure, they earned 'em—another trio you should know about—John Borican, Jim Rafferty and Gene Venzke.

Borican is perhaps the greatest all-around track star in the land. He's the world indoor record holder at 600 and 1000 yards.

He can run a very creditable mile and he is the national decathlon champion, the only athlete ever to win both the same year.

Venzke has been racing for more than a decade. He has been a figure in the major indoor mile races and has won many. But the fine part of his record is that he has never finished outside the money. Always first, second or third. He had to put on a burst of speed to overtake Walter Mehl and grab third in the recent Baxter mile of the N. Y. Athletic Club games.

Rafferty is one of the surprises of the mile campaigns this winter. Making his debut in the major mile events, he ran a close second to MacMittell in the Metropolitan AAU, Milrose and Baxter miles and third in races at Boston and Philadelphia. His best time, in the Baxter, was a fraction over 4:10.

Hogan had been ill since the close of the New Orleans Open ten days ago and had decided to stay out of this tough 72-hole test which Sammy Snead has won twice in the last three years. But yesterday just before the entries closed he made his appearance at the club and shot a one-under par practice round that was duplicated under adverse conditions only by Snead, Sarazen and Henry Picard.

Wood has not played a tournament since he finished sixth in the $10,000 Miami Open in December and Picard has played in only the last three of the seven shows held since the first of the year.

Aside from the purse, the St. Petersburg Open drew its full complement of stars because it is a natural warmup for next week's invitational four-ball tournament at Miami and for the Augusta Masters championship, the most highly regarded prizes of the spring.

Lakewood is a long course and can be made as difficult as the officials wish. Two years ago the pins were placed on the front of the greens for the tourney, which then was 54 holes, and Jim Demaret won it barely two under par. Demaret has been ill and is not entering in the 1942 renewal.

Some of the pros have played as many as five practice rounds, but out of all this tring there have been only two trips in less than 71. Picard and Claude Harmon each have turned in cards of 69.

Syracuse Women Will Bowl Colonials Sunday Afternoon

New Process Gears to Have Outstanding Keglers Set for Red Cross Match at Central Alleys

Sunday afternoon at the Central Recreation alleys the Colonial City Stars, composed of some of the best women bowlers in the city, will take the spotlight when they engage the outstanding New Process Gears of Syracuse.

The match is scheduled for 3 o'clock with all proceeds going to the Red Cross War Relief Fund.

Last year in the W. I. B. C. the Syracuse keggers finished sixth in the Los Angeles tourney with a nifty 2565. Their team average was 875, 842 and 848. The team is expected to give the Kingston female bowlers one of their stiffest tests to date.

A look at the upstate squad finds that Mrs. Mary Kite, Sr., captain of the squad, is one of the most powerful bowlers. She shared the W. I. B. C. national doubles with W. Peters of Syracuse in 1938 with an 1135 score. Another outstanding star is Ruth Brissom, who won the Journal-American Classic singles last year with 656. She finished well up in the all-events division of the W. I. B. C. in Los Angeles with 1644, shooting 536 in the team; 556 doubles and 552 singles.

Francis Kasimir one of the main stars on the team has been rated highly by Johnny Martino of Syracuse Marksmen. Martino said, "Francis will show local fans an out and in curve ball comparable to that of any of the male sharpshooters."

The squad also includes Mary Kite, Jr., Olive Wells and Martha Rompf.

Kingston will have its regular performers in action, Alyce Riseley, Evelyn Provenzano, Rita Markie, Rae Coddington and Charlotte Lapine all in readiness for the invasion of this outstanding team from upstate.

In the first playoff game of the Junior City Basketball League Saturday at the municipal auditorium, Forst defeated Matthews by the score of 27 to 22. Jimmy Smith and Al Thomas collected eight and six points respectively for the winners. Joe Shattan kept the losers in the battle with 13 points.

slowed the Japanese drive toward Rangoon and that the enemy was being held virtually at a standstill.

A German broadcast recorded by Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, declared one Japanese spearhead had advanced to within about 20 miles of Batavia and that the fight for the capital of the Netherlands East Indies was in full swing.

Such a thrust might have been made from beachheads either in the Bantam district of westernmost Java or the Indramajaya Bay front. The German broadcast, however, did not identify its source and there was no immediate confirmation of the claim.

An Allied counterattack was reported late yesterday to have driven the Japanese back seven miles in one important sector. This may have been in the Biora area, on the coastal railroad about 85 miles west of Soerabaja, the major Dutch naval base.

16 Jap Bombers Downed
Deck and flying gunners of the U. S. Navy claimed destruction of 16 heavy Japanese bombers of 18 which attacked a task force driving into the Japanese Mandate Islands.

Only a sidelight compared with bloody far-flung actions in the battle of Java, the engagement nevertheless backed up the Navy's promise of aggressive action.

A Washington communiqué said that the task force, made up of an aircraft carrier, cruisers and destroyers, was attacked by two nine-bomber formations recently while operating west of the Gilbert Islands, which are among the mandated groups dotting the Pacific between Hawaii and the Philippines.

Only two of the raiders escaped, the communiqué said, and "there was no damage to our surface forces...only two of our fighter planes were lost. The pilot of one was recovered."

Darwin, a naval and air base on the north coast of Australia, was raided again by the Japanese. Prime Minister John Curtin announced.

A makeshift use of Japanese fighter planes in such cross-sea assaults as the raids yesterday upon Broome, Australia, 700 miles southeast of Darwin, and Wyndham was disclosed by an R. A. F. communiqué.

"The enemy used fighter aircraft fitted with long-range detachable petrol tanks," the communiqué said.

eventual all-out assault against the British Isles.

Informed London quarters said the attack might indicate the end of the long continued allied attempts to coax Chief of Staff Philippe Petain's Vichy government away from a policy of collaboration with the Reich.

Speculation Arises

Immediate speculation arose as to the Vichy government's reaction, particularly whether Petain would now turn the still powerful French fleet over to Germany or even plunge France headlong into war against Britain.

While the British emphasized that the raid was aimed strictly at war factories, Marshal Petain issued this statement: "The bloody attack on the night of March 3-4, striking only at the civilian population, will arouse general indignation and take on the character of a national catastrophe."

The 85-year-old French chief of state decreed that the victims' funeral day would be a day of national mourning.

Dispatches from Vichy said at least 12 towns in the Paris suburbs had been bombed, with the heaviest blows falling upon the factory regions of Boulogne-Sur-Mer and Brilloncourt.

A Vichy communiqué stressed that casualty figures were only preliminary, indicating that the death toll might be considerably higher.

Italy Raids U. S. Coast

Meanwhile, Premier Mussolini's high command declared for the first time that Italian submarines were operating with German U-boats off the United States coast.

An Italian communiqué said Fascist undersea raiders had sunk 27,204 tons of ships off the Atlantic.

On the Russian war front, a bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters asserted that German troops had "annihilated" Red army forces attempting to break through Nazi siege lines at Sevastopol, in the Crimea.

The German high command again noted fierce Soviet attacks on the Donets (Ukraine) front, before Moscow and in the Leningrad sector, but declared they had been beaten off.

In Russia, Moscow's information bureau said Soviet units have destroyed "about 50 centers of enemy resistance" on the Leningrad front.

Red army men were declared to have slain 4,050 Germans in the Leningrad and Kalinin zones in two days of action this week and have blasted with shellfire an aerial supply base of the beleaguered 16th Nazi army in the Staraya Russa sector.

cut loose with everything they can muster in an effort to crush Hitler before he can recover from the grievous hurts they have inflicted on him this winter. In short, the Reds appear to be getting set to stage their spring offensive ahead of time, while the snows still blanket the steppes and the expansive rivers are yet frozen.

That can't surprise, for during their amazing counter-offensive the Bolsheviks have demonstrated time and again that one of the fundamentals of their success is to meet opportunity three-quarters of the way. Right now the Nazi chief is in difficulties and the Reds, like good warriors, are following up for a possible kill.

There's a tremendous stake involved in this coming struggle of giants, for the outcome of the battle is likely to tip the world-war scales definitely one way or the other. Moreover, there is the far-reaching probability that only one of the two regimes will survive.

Will Emerge Strongest

Therefore, as these two greatest land fighting machines of the world maneuver into position, it's interesting to hear Britain's new leader of the House of Commons, Sir Stafford Cripps, say that if the Allies are victorious the Soviet Union will emerge the strongest European power and is "likely to end the war sitting in Berlin."

Sir Stafford, who until recently was ambassador to Russia, is what the conservative Englishman calls a radical, and shudders as he says "However, the leader of the U. S. House is a driving force—so much so that Premier Churchill felt it wise to include him in the councils of the mighty."

Now you and I know that the Allies are going to win the war. Thus the only point in question is whether Sir Stafford is right in saying Russia will be the strong European power—which is going some for an Englishman.

Well, long ago this column recorded the view that Russia would be the dominant power of Europe after the war, and nothing has happened to change that view. In fact the Soviet looks far stronger potentially now than it did before the Russo-Nazi conflict began. The least that can be said is that Moscow will be an outstanding figure in the pattern of the fabric from which peace will be cut.

When Hitler started the second World War by lashing out at Poland, he already was challenging England for the position of "policeman of Europe." That wasn't so much a question of military might as of a politico-economic situation when I toured eastern Europe and the Balkans just after the Munich crisis. Hitler was the boss of the vast area, because of Germany's capacity for consuming the agricultural products of her neighbors and her ability to provide them with manufactured goods.

At that time Russia was mostly paying attention to her own knitting, and not intruding much politically in the rest of Europe. She was busy with Stalin's vast industrial program and the creation of a great army.

But now the position is entirely changed. Russia holds first place in European industrial production. The tremendous Soviet empire is launched. Their capture one by one would give the United Nations the stepping-stone string of bases which reaches almost to the Philippines. A successful campaign of this character would deprive Japan of most Pacific outposts, and put the Allies in a position to menace not only Japanese lines of communications but Japan itself.

enemy bombers were shot down in this action. There was no damage to our surface forces. Lieutenant (J. G.) Edward H. O'Hare, U. S. Navy fighter pilot, personally accounted for six bombers of the enemy.

"In the two attacks only two of our fighter planes were lost. The pilot of one was recovered."

Represents Threat

Besides the harassment and damage such task force sweeps cause to the enemy, they represent a constant threat that pins down sizeable Japanese protective forces—land, sea and air—in the mandate island area covering thousands of miles of ocean.

After the successful U. S. raid on bases in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, Tokyo sarcastically invited a task force to return to the "horror's nest" in the mandates.

Whether it was the same task force that paid the return call was not specified in last night's communiqué, although the squadron was similar in composition. The force presumably operated from Hawaii, more than 2,000 miles distant, and further details of the action may be forthcoming after it completes its mission. The navy followed that procedure in the Gilbert-Marshall operation.

The mandate islands may well figure importantly in American strategy when a Pacific offensive is launched. Their capture one by one would give the United Nations the stepping-stone string of bases which reaches almost to the Philippines. A successful campaign of this character would deprive Japan of most Pacific outposts, and put the Allies in a position to menace not only Japanese lines of communications but Japan itself.

According to existing records, the first U. S. Marine Corps officer was 1st Lieutenant John Trevett.

duce. However, the present prospect of a victorious Russia and a beaten Germany certainly support Sir Stafford Cripps' thesis.

Cripps Asks Allies To Follow Russia In All-Out Way

Sir Stafford Warns Recent Setbacks Might Bring Further Reverses for Allies

London, March 4 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, government leader in the House of Commons, appealed to the United Nations to follow the "all-out" example of Russia in the world fight against Nazis and Fascism in a broadcast speech to the United States today.

"We now are all allies together to drive aggression and Fascism from the world," Sir Stafford declared.

"After the victory let us remain in the same gallant company to rebuild a stricken world upon the foundations of justice and equality that will secure for us, for them and for all people of the world a happier, saner and more peaceful future."

He warned repeatedly that the Allies' recent heavy setbacks would be followed by further reverses, but insisted that "modern war, on the gigantic and farflung scale upon which it now is being waged, is not finally won or lost as the result of territorial gains here or there."

"It eventually will be won by the resources in manpower and material that can be mobilized behind one side or the other," the former ambassador to Moscow and now Lord Privy Seal in the war cabinet declared.

In these, he said, the Allies have overwhelming superiority and hence the present United Nations outlook is not disheartening.

Sir Stafford praised the Russian people for their war effort, but added:

"The fight on the Russian front is by no means over. They still have long months of stubborn and desperate fighting before them. But in all their trials they will be borne up by the knowledge which their own valor has taught them—that they can and will defeat an enemy which our enemy, too."

"The myth of Hitler's invincibility was smashed by (Marshal Semion) Timoshenko at Rostov and by the gallant troops on the Moscow front."

Ravena Youth Is Arrested For Shooting Aerial Cable

Christopher Benedict Libertucci, 19, of Ravena was arrested February 24 by Trooper F. P. Larsen of the West Coxsackie Barracks of the New York State Police and charged with malicious mischief.

Libertucci is charged specifically with shooting through an aerial cable of the New York Telephone Company and putting out of commission 23 pairs of wires which were the direct line of the company between Washington and Montreal.

Libertucci was taken before Justice of the Peace Ellsworth Winchell of the Town of Coeymans and was held for the action of the Albany grand jury, which is to convene this week. Bail was fixed at $1,500.

Thousands of U. S. Troops Arrive at Northern Ireland

But there are some representatives of every part of the country. They came in full field equipment and with their guns ready.

The white-haired troop commander was a colonel from the middle west, a veteran of artillery campaigning in the first World War and five years commander of the same unit, which was with the Rainbow Division.

First ashore from the first shipload, the colonel saluted Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, U. S. commander in Northern Ireland, and said, "Glad to be here, sir."

Meanwhile his soldiers lined the rails, cheering and tossing American cigarettes to the pier to start scrambles among the dockworkers.

The honor of being first in the ranks to land was given to Master Sergeant Dorrance Mann, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, who served in the first World War with the colonel commanding this contingent.

Mrs. Warren Says Prospects Bright For Area Gardens

Mrs. William A. Warren of Hurley, county chairman for the Victory Garden movement, believes there won't be any question about the success of this auxiliary plan to raise more fruit and vegetables at home, as part of the war program, if the fine example set by David Bush, 78-year-old resident at 240 West Chestnut street, is followed by the people of Ulster county generally.

Bright and early the morning following publication in the Freeman of Mrs. Warren's appeal for an increase in gardening activities this year, on the part of those who had suitable land and had had experience in raising vegetables, Mr. Bush appeared at the office on John street and was the first person to sign up in the Victory Garden campaign.

Mr. Bush, who is retired, has done some gardening in years past and is no novice at the game, but this year he really is going places. In addition to necessarily limited garden space at the home on West Chestnut street which he will make the most of as usual, Mr. Bush plans on tilling an acre of land at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Neff, near Kyserville.

He plants and cares for a full line of vegetables, doing the work himself and in addition finds time somehow to care for a flower garden.

Mr. Bush, according to Mrs. Warren, not only knows how to grow his vegetables and bring them to maturity, but is also familiar with many schemes for caring for them for winter use. One of these, which he confided to Mrs. Warren, is putting down string beans in salt. These are taken out later, freshened and are ready for cooking. He also is fortunate in having the advantage of a good storage cellar where apples and root vegetables are kept well until wanted for winter use.

Mrs. Warren says that so far there has been a satisfactory response to the Victory Garden appeal, with nearly 100 persons having registered so far, gardens running from plots of 20 x 20 feet to those of an acre or more. He is particularly pleased to have had a number of the market gardeners appear and register their names, to show their desire to cooperate.

Volunteer Nurses To Meet Shortage

Office of Civilian Defense Calls for 100,000

To meet an acute shortage in nursing services revealed by the national defense emergency, the Office of Civilian Defense has called for 100,000 women to be trained by the American Red Cross in an intensive 80 hour instruction course as a Volunteer Nurses' Aide Corps.

The object is to develop a dependable and effective body of volunteers who will have the necessary knowledge and skill to assist nurses in the care of the sick in hospitals, clinics and health organizations. They will work under the supervision of a graduate nurse.

They will serve without any remuneration, and will supplement, but never supplant, the paid worker. By performing a variety of necessary services in hospitals, clinics or wherever they may be needed, they will leave the professional nurse free to carry on treatment and other work for which she has been specially trained, which can only be undertaken by an experienced graduate.

Any woman, between the ages of 18 and 50, intelligent and physically fit, and able to serve at least 150 hours year without pay, is eligible for the corps. The American Red Cross, through its chapters, is in collaboration with local civilian defense, hospital, medical and nursing organizations, will select, enroll, instruct and place the volunteers.

Ulster county, at the meeting of civilian pilots and other members of the group held in Montgomery Sunday, The group was addressed by Richard D. Clemson of Middletown, who is commander for this area.
